day and extended day school students.
 A list of these students is posted on the bulletin board in the back hall, and by the Guidance office, and anyone finding his name on it should contact the registrar immediately.

Inquiries Into Summer Job Opportunities Urged

summer jobs. He said that the pea canneries in the Dayton area may have some openings and also that the various National Parks should be contacted for summer work. Haas said that students should have their names in for seasonal work at the Employment Security Department as opportunities do occur.

Haas Speaks Before Scholars

According to Haas, students desiring jobs in distributive education or business administration should contact Mr. Wilbur Miller or Howard Kiehlbauch.
 Students desiring work scholarships on campus should contact Mrs. Venetta Stappler. There may be a few campus summer jobs open during the six week session from June 12 to July 26 or 28, according to Haas. Students attending the summer session are urged to try for afternoon or evening jobs. Haas said that opportunities for jobs for female students may be at drive-in restaurants or outdoor movies.

Speakers Place In National Debate Tourney

Five of the six CBC debaters placed at the recent National Debate tournament held recently at Stockton JC in California.

Members making the trip were Dan McMillin, Marvin McWhorter, Julia Whitby, Michele Briece, Linda Darnell and Bonnie Ray.

The team members entered debate, original oratory, extemporaneous speaking, impromptu speaking, and interpretative reading.

The national tournament attracted schools from eight states: Washington, Colorado, Oklahoma, Michigan, Utah, Kansas, Wyoming, and California. The tournament consisted of top students from 21 junior colleges in these states. Some 210 Phi Rho Pi members attended the tourney. Entered in the debate competition were 21 women's and 42 men's teams.

In the women's debate division, partners Michele Briece and Julia Whitby were placed in a five-way tie for sixth place. In men's debate, Marvin McWhorter and Dan McMillin placed in a four-way tie for sixth place. Michele Briece placed sixth in impromptu ranking. Marvin McWhorter also tied for sixth place in original oratory.

At the banquet the second evening of the tournament certificates of excellence were awarded to Bonnie Ray and Marvin McWhorter for original oratory, Michele Briece for impromptu, and Dan McMillin for extemp.

Result of Primaries Told; Student Leaders Hope For Larger Vote

The hard work and ambition of a select group of CBC students will be rewarded today.

Final elections, in which CBC students will have the chance to select most of their student body officers for the coming school year, are to be held during the day.

The new ASCBC president, as the result of today's voting, will be either Glenn Weitz or Larry R. Taylor.

Bob Avery and Veronica Colby are battling for the vice president job.

Contesting the position of student body secretary are Carol Brumwell and Mary Anderson.

Three sophomore representatives-at-large will be elected from among the following candidates: John Hall, Bill Kring, Ron Newman, Jim O'Connell, Marsha Reimers, and Susy Topp.

Midquarter Here

Today is mid-quarter.

On or about this date instructors will send notices to students whose work is not satisfactory, and this is the last day a student who is doing unsatisfactory work may withdraw from a class with a "W".

Candidates for today's election were chosen by the number of votes they received in the primary election last Friday.

The number of students voting in the primary (308 out of about 800 qualified) was somewhat disappointing to many student leaders. They are hoping that the turn-out will be larger today.

CBC SNEA Receives Letter of Commendation

The Marji Wilbur Chapter of Student National Education Association received a letter of commendation for their outstanding work during the year at the State Convention on Whitworth's campus in Spokane, Saturday, April 15.

Dr. Elmer Siebrecht, chairman of WEA Teacher Selection and Recruitment Committee and Miss Barbara Krohn, WEA Consultant to Student Organizations awarded the Commendation to the CBC chapter for a "program which shows an awareness of many facets of education, as demonstrated by the variety of its program; for its conduct of a teacher recruitment and selection drive which has tripled the Chapters membership in the course of one year; for its support of the state-wide Student WEA; but chiefly, for its members' enthusiastic and competent conduct of a highly successful regional Student WEA meeting.

Th CBC association was second runner-up for the trophy award competed for by chapters from 19 Washington State Colleges and Universities. Pacific Lutheran was the trophy winner and WWCE was first runner-up.

Miss Nikki Meidell was formally installed as Eastern Regional Co-ordinator for the state at the afternoon business meeting.

Miss Nancy Shenafelt, former CBC co-ed, was elected to the position of State First Vice President. Nancy is now a student at Holy Names College in Spokane.

Phi Theta Kappa Delegates Selected

Carole Jaeger, Jay Maurer, and Cheryl DeGard have been chosen to attend the Phi Theta Kappa National Convention in Sheridan, Wyo., on April 20, 26 and 27. Maurer and Ron Hansen are alternates.

The delegates and their adviser, Mr. Swafford, will leave Monday morning and will be back Saturday evening. In addition, they will visit a Dude Ranch and play a little golf on the golf field.

Is Campus Conservatism Nothing But Mishmash?

What is currently being called "campus conservatism" or "mishmash" of Carrol Hawkins, professor of political science at Michigan State University.

In an interview with John News, Hawkins says the group for conservatism is progress, where conservatives are for change and always places the blame in the present.

THE 'X' FACTOR

The world-at-large has its own variation of the traditional 'Three R's.' The current indications in the Congo, in the U.N., in the governments of the world, and yes, in the colleges of America, seems to be rebellion. Golf Match Set Columbia Basin College's four man golf team will participate in a dual match with Yakima Junior College today.

At press time, the location for the meet had not been announced. It was to be a three-way conference match with Wenatchee Junior College, CBC, and Yakima Junior College participating, but Wenatchee no longer has a golf team.

Playing the number one position for the Hawks will be Dan Frandson. The other team members are Bill Estep, Butch Dunham, and Bob Ross.

'Test Grading' Machine Shown To CBC Faculty

A "test grading" machine has been invented at Columbia Basin College!

The machine was demonstrated Tuesday afternoon in the faculty lounge by CBC student Marvin McWhorter with the assistance of several faculty members who were involved in its creation.

The project is the result of the combined efforts of Mr. Fred Keezer of machine technology; Mr. Frank Sweet, electronics technology; Mr. Ervin Edmunds and Mr. Howard Kiehlbaugh of the business administration department; Mr. Gil Maddox of the Tri-City Tool and Die Corp.; and students McWhorter and Gordon Martini. As a research project, it is under the sponsorship of Dr. William Crawford of Washington State University.

The machine parts were built under Keezer's direction — with Martini's help, Sweet supervised the building of the electronics components, McWhorter and Maddox designed it.

McWhorter said the machine would be mounted in a chassis 8" x 10" x 14". It is portable and compact and is designed as a time and work-saver for the instructor. One of the assets of such a machine is the immediate grading feature for a test that can be given following a class lecture.

then placed in the device. The device then records the number of test questions correctly answered by the student.

Maddox further indicated that additional features could be built into the machine such as a way to stamp the card so the student would know how many questions he missed and also to indicate to him which question was missed.

An estimate of cost on unit-production basis was given for the test grading machine. The group reported that parts (at list) would be about $330; manufacturing, $250; marketing $300; for an estimated total of $880.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank the many students who supported my candidate and made him one of the finalists in the primary election. I sincerely request your support again, and ask that you will carefully consider Glenn Weitz, who I feel is well qualified for ASCBC president, when you vote today.

News From JC Commission, Other Junior Colleges

Bob Player, Executive Commissioner of the WSJCSGA, has announced that there will be a meeting of the Intercollegiate Commission at Wenatchee Junior College on April 29. The main function of this meeting will be to prepare final plans for the Junior College Leadership Conference to be held in Longview during the 19th and 20th of May.

On March 29 and 30, Bob Player was guest of Grays Harbor College in Aberdeen. This is what Bob had to say about his visit: "I was overwhelmed by the friendliness and hospitality of the students of Grays Harbor College. After an elaborate welcome, I met and talked with the extremely efficient student council of Grays Harbor. Don White, ASB President, and Em Haggin, ICC, took me on a tour of the beautiful and highly impressive Grays Harbor College campus. I thoroughly enjoyed every minute of my stay at Grays Harbor. Thanks, everyone, for making my visit so wonderful."

Wenatchee Valley College: On Thursday, February 23, Mr. D. H. Tilson, Manager of the Northwest Operations Aluminum Company of America, presented to the college an award of $500. Dr. Starr, president of the Wenatchee Valley College, said that this is the second such award that has been made to the college in the past two years. This money was specifically given to the college for the purchase of a 200 ampere aluminum welder.

The Student Council voted in favor of entering a float in the Apple Blossom Festival, May 4, 5, and 6. A contest will be held for students to present designs for the float and the winning design will be given a prize. Mr. Herb Milikien, the advisor, said "As in the past year the policy will be that those who build the float will ride on it."

Grays Harbor College: There is a possibility that in the future GHC students will be able to use lunch tickets to buy their lunches. It is thought that purchasing a $5 ticket and punching the desired amount of meals would facilitate the work of the cooks by eliminating the necessity of handling change during rush hours. Also it will be a great boon for those students who have trouble hanging on to their paychecks until the end of the month.

Everett Junior College: Scholarship recipients met the donors of their awards at the annual Scholarship Banquet Tuesday, March 7. The informal dinner sponsored by the college, was designed to acquaint scholarship students with those who are personally responsible for helping them get a college education. More than 65 students and approximately 30 scholarship donors attended the banquet in the EJC cafeteria.

Yakima Valley Junior College: In order to redistribute the work load that has been piling up on the shoulders of the Associated Student officers, the college Board of Control has found it necessary to create two new offices on the Executive Board. The first of these new offices, that of Publicity Chairman, was filled by the appointment of Gary McDonald, and the brand new title of "Chairman of the Social Committee" was given to Harold (Buddy) Horton. Both appointments were made during the latter half of the Winter Quarter.

Lower Columbia Junior College: The Vets' 21 club is sponsoring a letter writing contest in support of the proposed Peacetime GI Bill now in Congress. The contest already underway, will end on April 14. Each member of the LCJC student body is encouraged to write two letters (one to his Representative and one to his Senator) explaining why he feels the bill should be enacted. Writers of the three winning letters will each receive a five-dollar prize. In addition, students enrolled currently in English composition may receive theme credit for letters entered.

Students who registered for the spring quarter had to bring their automobile registration cards with them when they paid their ASB fees. The reason for this action was (1) to give the school more control over those who park in the LCJC lots, (2) to give some kind of a registration count so that a suitable record may be kept, (3) to give an estimation of needs for parking facilities for the future. Earlier reports on this parking problem indicated that college students might be required to purchase parking stickers next year if enrollment increases sharply. This is a problem many colleges have solved by putting into effect such a plan.

Students from the International Relations Club of Clark College and the Political Club of LCJC met in the Student Union Building of LCJC on March 30 for a joint program on political affairs. The program began with the controversial film, "Operation Abolition." After seeing the film the students discussed India's non-alignment policy towards the East and the West with Mr. Surrindra Sikka, a former newspaper man from India. After refreshments Don Bonker of Clark and Kathy Lyons of LCJC outlined the activities of their respective clubs. A question-answer period followed with an exchange of many interesting ideas and solutions. Both clubs hailed the program as an outstanding success.

Hawks Drop To Vandals; To Everett Tomorrow

The Columbia Basin Hawks are seeking the conference double-header in four outings on their journey to Everett to face the ever-tough

This is the first road trip for the Hawks have thus far compiled league record, at home.

A three-game win streak brought to an abrupt Moscow, Idaho, Saturday when CBC dropped a the Idaho Vandals, 9-0.

Three Idaho chuckles Hinchley, Danny Gray Drepp, limited a hard Hawk line-up to six hits two games.

CBC scored its only hit the afternoon in the ninth of the nightcap. Dave Ranet scored Jim with a single and Pazzatti forced Daryl across with a one-base Former CBC-er, Blason, clubbed the big hit day, a home run in the inning of the second game.
